Almuth Lutkenhaus' sculpture, Crucified Woman, has graced the gardens of Victoria University since 1986. This two-day event includes arts expression, keynote presentations, workshops and reflections from those currently engaged with the struggles of women. Keynote Speakers include, among others, Doris Jean Dyke, author of Crucified Woman (United Church Publishing House, 1991); Marjory Noganosh, Ojibwe elder and energy therapist at Anishnawbe Health Toronto, Rita Leistner, Photojournalist; and Pat Capponi, writer advocate and activist around homelessness, poverty and/or mental health issues with Voices from the Street. Gather to honour the many faces of Crucified Woman as we explore together the hopes and passions she continually evokes.

INFORMATION: Workshop fee $80, includes supper on Friday and lunch on Saturday. Deadline for registration is Wednesday May 5. For further information contact Betsy Anderson 416-813-4096 betsy.anderson@utoronto.ca. On-line information at www.vicu.utoronto.ca/emmanuel.
